SOUTH AMERICAN RACING.

An American turfman, who has spent two years in the Argentine Republic and Chile, talks as follows in an interview:

"The principal tracks of the Argentine Republic are the Palermo and Belgrano, the former situated two miles out of Buenos Ayres, the metropolis of the country. Our informant states that he has traveled over a large portion of the world, and is of the opinion that it is the grandest racing establishment on the globe. The grand stands, building of mile track, clubhouse and betting quarters cost $1,500,000 as they stand, the ground of the Palermo track being owned by the government. Trains from Buenos Ayres run right into the grounds. The choicest portion of the grand stand is reserved for the President, the members of the Cabinet and their families.

"The only way the Argentinians have of wagering money on the races is by the Paris mutuel plan, and the government conducts everything in connection with the racing at Palermo. Five per cent commission is charged. Every ten minutes before a race there is a halt in the betting, and every five minutes while the speculation is going on four large blackboards are hoisted to let the public know the sum that has been wagered on the various contestants. When the betting on a race is finally stopped three blackboards are set up before the grand stands, with the total number of tickets sold chalked up, and the amount each horse should pay can be figured by any one that understands the plan. After the race is over the dividends on the first and second horses are figured by the government clerks. The building where the betting is done is a very long one, partitioned into about 150 booths, somewhat like our election booths. The ordinary price of tickets is $2, but there are booths for the heavy players, with different bunches of tickets made up, so that any sum can be quickly wagered.

"The horseman says that on one Sunday in November 80,000 people paid to attend the races, 60,000 of the tickets ranging in price from $1 to $10 according to location of seats. The poorer classes occupy the infield and upper part of the home stretch, and admittance costs 20 cents. On seven races about $4,500,000 was wagered (paper money worth 20 cents on the dollar). The money had depreciated in value through the great failure of the Baring Bros."

American owners would not like the Argentine tracks, which are of turf, but very flinty. Breakdowns are common. American and English riders would not fancy the treatment they would receive there. The native riders combine against jockeys from this and "the old country" and "put them over the fence" every time an opportunity presents itself.

The Belgrano is much like the Palermo establishment, though it is conducted by a syndicate and not the government. The course is four miles out of Buenos Ayres, which is a city of about 800,000 inhabitants. The ladies of that country are pronounced by our turfman friend the handsomest, as a class, he ever set eyes upon. Paris only outrivals Buenos Ayres in its turnouts, he declares, and the way they attend the races would astonish North Americans. There is racing at the two big courses on alternative days during the regular season.

The "boom" in races began in the '80s, when Valentine, an American, got the Rothschilds and Barings into the great scheme for reclaiming the pampas. When the bubble burst the great bankers were the chief sufferers, and while Argentinian money was depreciated the people of the Argentine Republic had a large amount of the gold of the foreigners, and thousands of them were basking on the sunny side of Easy street.

Senor Bocau, about the wealthiest man in that country paid 16,000 guineas for Ormonde 9,000 guineas for the French horse Athos II. In all he had about twenty-five horses in training and 100 in his stud.

Athos II was the best horse in the South American Republic when our turfman friend was there, and an idea of his worth can be had when it is known that he ran a mile in 1:39½ with 127 pounds (or 58 kilos) up. The mile record in the Argentine Republic was 1:38½, made with 115 pounds up. Athos II took up 150 pounds, he says, and ran a mile and seven furlongs in 3:12½, which is about the best performance on record. Our best on record is 3:20, made with 90 pounds in the saddle. Athos II was a chestnut horse that looked a great deal like El Rio Rey. He was perhaps a little more compact in build, with a back that looked almost strong enough to carry a house. A really first-class stake horse three-years old or over, could win $200,000 in stakes and purses there in a season, so rich are the prizes hung up.

The Argentine racing season opens on April 1 and continues every Sunday and church holiday until January 1. After the horses come out on the course no one is allowed on the track except the assistant starter. As the riders weigh out they receive a little slip from the automatic scale, and the check must be returned as the jockeys weigh in. The management is very particular about the paddock and scaleroom, and considerable influence must be brought to bear if a person enters the latter. Paddock tickets sell for $5. The jockeys, a poorly paid lot, are treated as so many slaves. They come from the lower classes and are only allowed to mingle with the "scum." All the stables are situated outside the courses, and are separated by quite a distance.

The trainers are the most suspicious persons on the earth, says our traveling friend, and they work horses with either very light or very heavy weights up, in order to fool outsiders. Scattered over Buenos Ayres are hundreds of betting places, all licensed by the government, and in view of this the attendance on races is truly wonderful.

In Chile the conditions are altogether different. The people are not as fond of racing as in Argentine Republic—at least they have not shown as much interest in the sport up to this time, while their stakes and purses will not compare with those of the country where Ormonde once made his home.

The best racehorse in Chile for years was Lottery, a well-known California bred horse, by Monday—Virginia. He swept everything before him in that country in the '80s. The best broodmare there by long odds was Lady Washington, a sister to Ironclad and Cousin Peggy, latter the dam of Geraldine. She belongs to a Chilean millionaire, and produced Jenourous, Swell and six other good winners. Several of her foals by Imp. By-the-Sea sold for $15,000, while $20,000 was refused for a yearling from her. Imp. By-the-Sea, a son of Thormanby and Bernice, by Stockwell, foaled in America in 1868, made the mile record of Chile (1:43½), and proved the best sire they ever had in the republic. August Belmont, Sr., owned Bernice, the dam of By-the-Sea, and she threw many good winners, including the stake horse Bertram, and was a valuable piece of property. Our friend and informant says that Chile is a prosperous country, and if a number of really good horses were brought into the country and racing conducted in an "up-to-date" way, the sport would soon "catch on" there and become just as popular as it is in the sister republic of Argentine, over on the eastern side of the great Andes range.

WALTERS AND THE DOGS.

Charles Walters, the bookmaker, is still fond of laying long odds against what he thinks are the bad horses in races.

"I've been bit several times by 'the dogs' " says Walters.

"One day I was booking at Morris Park, and some dog named Black Hawk was running against a good lot of sprinters. I laid 100 to 1 against him and could not get him played, so I boosted to 200 to 1. After awhile a little old Irishman, with a $20 bill in his hand sneaked along in front of my box, and held it up in my face.

"Give me $2 on Black Hawk" he said.

"Oh, make it $5" I answered, sort of joshing him.

"Make it ten," he came back at me, a little hot in the collar because he thought I was trying to kid him.

"You might as well make it $20. Think what a nice ticket it will make."

"All right, make it twenty," and I handed him the ticket $4000 to $20.

"Black Hawk won. I paid the Irishman off in three thousand-dollar notes, and some greenbacks of smaller denomination. He would have none of the big bills. He didn't want that kind of money. I think he hired a hack to ride into town that night.

"But I am still going after the dogs."

NOTES OF THE TURF.

The stakes of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club filled exceptionally well, all the notable horses on the coast being entered. The California Derby at a mile and a quarter, with a guaranteed value of $5000, has forty-eight entries; the Ingleside Stakes at four miles has thirty-five entries, and the Tarpey Stakes, fifty-eight entries.

The suspension against Charles Murray, the trainer of Lady Hurst, has been made permanent. The judges at Oakland state that they have indisputable evidence that Murray has been in the practice of "doping" the mare.

The Morris brothers have retired the Friar and will use him as a sire. He is a most beautifully bred horse by Friar's Balsam—Lizzie Baker. The Dominican, his brother, died a few weeks ago of pneumonia.

The Arkansas Jockey Club has been reorganized. Joseph E. Martin of St. Louis has been elected secretary and manager. "Umbrella" McGuigan is no longer a director of the association.

G. F. W., City—The chances are strong in favor of our charts being correct. The utmost care is used by editors and correspondents both over the item of weights. All changes are wired.

O'Connell is in 'Frisco ready for use when the proper occasion turns up. The once great sprinter is quite handy when he and his surroundings are comfortable.

George C. Bennett has bought a fine farm ten miles from Memphis and will go more keenly into the breeding of horses in the future.

There is to be a sixty days winter meeting at San Antonio, Tex., to begin December 9.

Time, 25.50, 1:02.

Winner—B. c. by Racine—Rosebud.
Start good. Won ridden out. The fog obscured view of racing bunch on far turn and at half mile ground. Starting figures were taken from post. Prompto was far the best, though lucky. He is a good colt and can beat better ones than he beat today. Valenciennne and Uncle True were lucky. The latter was short. Throw Hermoso's race out. He was interfered with at start and the going was not to his liking. Interference at the start cooked San Carlos' goose.
Scratched—Einstein, 106.
Overweights—Cima, 4 pounds; Uncle True, 3; San Carlos, 2.

Winner—Br. c. 3, by Salvator—Iris.
Start good. Won eased up. San Mateo is a colt of class and courage, though he may not be partial to a distance. He handled his weight like a gentleman. Mateo is best on hard going. Sharp ran a fair race but not up to his mark. He was not lucky though and inclined toward soft going. So does Mercutio; was also unlucky. Fannie S, The Bug and Castake were out of their places. Watch Flacon. He ran short.
Overweights—Dr. Sharp, 3 pounds.
